

Meeting on Monday, October 19, 2016

We looked at what each of you have done and made suggestions. It is your decision to follow the suggestions or not but you are looking for a correct and through approach. There is no unique way to approach the data.

You are the creator of your project and we will tell you if you need to do more once we see the data analyses.

It is important for each student to go one more step in data analysis from one meeting to another and submit the written work Monday before the next meeting.

We will meet again at 11am on Wednesday, November 2, 2016.

Make sure to submit the detailed written work on Monday, October 31, 2016.

During the next meeting, each of you will share the data analysis done so far.

We will answer the questions and try to identify unclear areas.

Looking forward to another great meeting.
