First meeting on Monday, September 22, 2016

(1) Introduction. Get to know each other. We have a wonderful very diverse group (location, workplace, prior training, interest,……..)

(2) ecampus website. Please review if you have not reviewed.

(3) ecampus, website has the data with its session information, data inventory explanation and subject demographics under general information. Notice that datafile is a zipped file because it is big.

(4) Website has two published papers srep00305 (earlier) and srep25651(recent) with a simpler analysis under general information. I also included different interviews published by university of Houston in different places under references.

(5) Our goal is to identify how the stressors affect the subjects and their driving behavior.   We will look for creative approaches to answer this.

(6) We will plan to finish the modeling and data analyses before the last meeting in December. You have the meeting dates until the last meeting in December (all at 11am CDT). Starting the middle of January, our meetings will be every week to finalize the presentation and to be inclusive.

Before the next meeting, please review everything posted in ecampus.

Please prepare a paragraph/page(s) and email me before 12 noon on October 3, 2016 to tell me how you will approach this. If you already have done data analyses and observed different properties that would help in decision making, please feel free to share.

Next meeting (11am on October 5, 2016), each of you will introduce your approach to us so that we can all give you an input.

Looking forward to creative ideas.
